HAVANA IN THE DESERT

As part of an extensive propertywide renovation, The Scott Resort and Spa has debuted its signature restaurant, The Canal Club, to the Old Town Scottsdale dining scene. The Cuban-American eatery draws on a 1930s Havana aesthetic and fuses it with the soul of New Orleans and the unparalleled style of Bauhaus architecture, with interiors that offer an elegantly casual atmosphere that opens to an encompassing desert oasis.

This culture-rich, modern restaurant includes both cocktail and coffee bars, and serves breakfast, lunch, dinner and tapas. “The Canal Club’s dining experience is centered around innovative dishes and beverages using the best ingredients that channel the core of American cuisine with a fresh blend of Caribbean and Southwestern food heritages,” says Stephen Johnson, general manager of The Scott.
